LABOR LAW NOTES

Overtime

With very few exceptions, senior caregivers are classified as “non-exempt” workers, which entitles them to be paid for every hour they work. Overtime (time-and-a-half) must be paid for each hour worked over 40 in a 7-day workweek.

Generally, live-in employees are exempt from overtime requirements, however, the states of CA, HI, MD, MA, MN, ME, NJ, NV, NY and OR have special overtime requirements for live-in employees. Your caregiver is considered a live-in employee if their primary residence is the home of the person they are caring for, or if they work 120 hours or more per week.

The state of California also has a daily overtime requirement if the caregiver works more than 9 hours in a day. Call HomePay at (888) 273-3356 for details.

Companion Worker Designation

The Department of Labor allows employers to be exempt from minimum wage and overtime if they hire a companion caregiver. It’s a very narrowly defined worker whose primary role is to provide “fellowship and protection.” This means the caregiver’s duties are usually restricted to reading, taking walks, playing games, etc.

If the caregiver spends more than 20% of his/her time on Activities of Daily Living, such as cleaning the house, assisting with meals, transferring, etc., they would not fit the definition. It’s also important to note that, even if the worker qualifies as a companion, some states will not allow families to take the overtime exemption. Please call HomePay if you believe you are hiring a companion and we’ll be happy to explain these rules further.

SENIOR CARE RULES

This is a document that both Employer and Employee will work with and develop together. The goal is to fill out this document at the start of the working relationship, but update it as the senior's needs develop and change -- and the trust grows deeper between family members and caregiver.

Date: _____

Family Philosophy:

Describe yourselves and how you want your parent or loved one to be cared for. Explain what is important to you (i.e., caring and compassionate treatment, retaining mom or dad's dignity, monitoring medications carefully, etc.). How independent is your loved one? Will s/he have a large say in day-to-day needs or does s/he need direction? Describe how much involvement you will have and how much managing you will want to do of your loved one's daily schedule.

Family History:

Share a little bit about your family and the history of your loved one (Were they married for 50 years? What was their career or their favorite hobby?), so the caregiver gets to know them.

Specific Diagnoses:

Does your loved one have a medical diagnosis like diabetes, congestive heart failure or dementia? Let your caregiver know the specifics and history here.

Attention:

Can your loved one be left alone? Some seniors have certain illnesses that require supervision at all times. If this is the case, be very clear with your caregiver about this. What steps should your caregiver take if another caregiver or family member is late to relieve him or her of their duties?

Medication Monitoring:

Will the caregiver need to prompt your loved one to take medication at designated times? What happens if your loved one refuses to take the medication? See the Daily Schedule for Senior Caregivers for proper medication schedules and dosages.

Physical or Cognitive Impairments:

Let your caregiver know of any physical or cognitive impairment your loved one has. How is their hearing? Do they need eye glasses? Does arthritis make getting out of bed difficult? Will your loved one know how to follow the caregiver's instructions without help? If your loved one gets confused or anxious, let your caregiver know and share common triggers and best practices for calming them down.

Typical Reactions to Receiving Care:

If your loved one is very independent, make sure your caregiver knows when and how to approach with offers of help. Do they reject assistance with one activity, but accept it with another? Do you have any tips to offer?

Handling Behavioral Issues:

This is typically a necessary area to cover if your loved one has Alzheimer's or another form of dementia. As mentioned above, you'll want to let your caregiver know what kinds of situations can trigger difficult behaviors (such as aggression or another emotional state) in your loved one. Triggering situations can be time of day, certain activities, the caregiver's emotional state and much more.

Additional Care:

What doctors is your loved one currently seeing or what types of additional care or therapies (such as physical therapy) are in progress or anticipated? Do the providers come to the house or will the caregiver need to bring your loved one to appointments?

In-Home Entertainment Options:

Does your loved one have a favorite television show? Does he or she like to read, be read to, listen to specific music, play cards, do puzzles, listen to the radio or do crafts? Do they have regular visitors in the home?

Visitors:

Does your loved one have regular visitors in the home? Who is allowed/not allowed? Are there any restrictions on how long your loved one can have visitors?

Sleep Preferences:

Talk about your loved one's typical sleep patterns and needs. Explain any particular rituals or habits they like to follow. Do they need a nap after lunch or following a doctor's appointment? Should the room be dark? Do they want the temperature warm or cool?

Communication:

Would you like to hear from the caregiver throughout the day or get overall daily or weekly updates? What particulars do you want to know about immediately? What can wait? Do you want a phone call, text or email? Do you want a written record of the day? How would you like to discuss concerns that arise? Is the caregiver allowed to discuss your loved one's care with other relatives? Which ones?

In an Emergency:

What do you want your caregiver to do in an emergency? After calling emergency services, who else should be notified? List names and numbers here.
